

Consulting Services

We provide customized solutions to corporate and foundation clients to support disaster recovery and address humanitarian crises.

We take the guesswork out of who to fund, where and when.

Disasters can occur anytime, anywhere. Pandemics, hurricanes, wildfires, floods and humanitarian crises are threatening the lives and livelihoods of billions worldwide. This creates a critical need for knowing when to respond and how to do so effectively.

CDP can help you develop a strategic plan that enables you to prepare for and respond to these unexpected crises, from supporting relief to investing in long-term, equitable recovery for affected communities.

Your institution requires innovative strategies that advance your values, increase your philanthropy's impact and ultimately strengthen your community.

Harness our team's unique experience in philanthropy, nonprofit leadership and disaster management for strategic and practical solutions to your disaster-related giving.

Back-office clients

CDP serves community foundations, corporations and donor-advised funds (DAFs) by providing monthly reports on funding for disaster response and recovery.

When a disaster event occurs, clients receive tailored lists of nonprofit organizations responding in the affected area within days. Clients also receive disaster alerts on events in their area.

Back-office clients may request customized communications content to support blogs, newsletters, webinars and podcasts on disaster response and recovery.

Do you need support on disaster trend analysis? Contact us about becoming a back-office client.
